Advandage

- Innovative Training
- Onboarding and training used to be a time-consuming, energy-intensive process. But thanks to modern technology, the hiring process has never been simpler.
- Today, many new hires complete onboarding paperwork off-site before they step foot in the building for their first day. Technology allows workers to complete tax documents, insurance enrollments, and learn about your company all from the comfort of their living rooms.

Disadvandage

- Loss of Company Culture
- A great example of tech's prevalence in the modern-day workplace is in remote work. Video platforms like Zoom and communication channels like Slack make it easier than ever for workers to connect with one another from anywhere in the world. But is something also lost in this shift to hybrid or work-from-home formats?
- A Gallup poll suggests that there is much at risk indeed. Remote workers reported feeling less valued or recognized while working remotely. They also feel less like someone at work cares about them and that their opinions matter less. These are major blows that can lead to a lack of investment in the company's mission and culture, which could have larger negative implications for your business over time.

Conclusion

- ech-Pro's goal is to place consultants in positions that are challenging and that help to achieve personal career goals. Due to the nature of the contracting business, we will not always be able to achieve this goal. Rather, there will be more of a balance to support not only the needs of the consultant, but also those of the client and Tech-Pro.
